

Past Projects

GDMIS strives to provide your company with the most qualified, capable and affordable contract consultants available.

In the past, GDMIS has provided staff for the Department of Transportation, US Forestry Service, as well as companies in the private sector. Potential consultants are thoroughly evaluated to determine if they will match your companies needs.

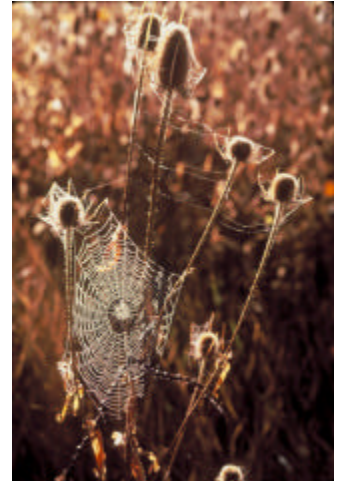

GSA U.S. General Services Administration

GDMIS is an experienced provider of professional GIS personnel to support the long and short term needs of both public and private sectors. With GDMIS managing the staff, you are able to focus on your particular specialty without the distraction and expense of servicing employee needs.

GDMIS employees are able to work independently as a part of your staff, or they can be considered a representative of our geospatial team, receiving technical support and managerial guidance from our corporate headquarters office in Middleburg, VA. The following are examples of the type of work performed by GDMIS employees for the US Forest Service:

- Forest canopy modeling for determination of vegetation density using ArcInfo and ERDAS Imagine software
- Interpretation of satellite imagery (LANDSAT TM) for identification of clearcut areas using ERDAS Imagine software
- Spotted Owl habitat mapping of the North Coast area of California
- Maps showing reptile dispersion within a National Forest
- Library database management
- Creation of ArcView maps for a Noxious Weed study plan
- Designed and programmed a relational database in MS Access for an Ambient Ozone Study
- Creation of Sudden Oak Death (SOD) field survey topographic maps
- Updated insect disease maps for Region 5 and for individual forests

As you can see, our company is able to provide many different skill sets to satisfy project or task needs, and because our employees are contracted to you for the period of the task, there is no permanent commitment to a full time hire. GDMIS provides our employees with a comfortable level of salary and benefits and saves you the cost of administration and long term employment responsibility in the face of tight and unpredictable budgets.

Working with GDMIS to satisfy your specialty task needs makes cents!
